Period for Reply

A SHORTENED STATUTORY PERIOD FOR REPLY IS SET TO EXPIRE 3 MONTH(S) FROM THE MAILING DATE OF THIS COMMUNICATION.

- Extensions of time may be available under the provisions of 37 CFR 1.136(a). In no event, however, may a reply be timely filed after SIX (6) MONTHS from the mailing date of this communication.
  - If the period for reply specified above is less than thirty (30) days, a reply within the statutory minimum of thirty (30) days will be considered timely.
  - If NO period for reply is specified above, the maximum statutory period will apply and will expire SIX (6) MONTHS from the mailing date of this communication.
  - Failure to reply within the set or extended period for reply will, by statute, cause the application to become ABANDONED (35 U.S.C. § 133).
- Any reply received by the Office later than three months after the mailing date of this communication, even if timely filed, may reduce any earned patent term adjustment. See 37 CFR 1.704(b).

DETAILED ACTION

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102

The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

(b) the invention was patented or described in a printed publication in this or a foreign country or in public use or on sale in this country, more than one year prior to the date of application for patent in the United States.

Claims 1-3 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(b) as being anticipated by Guzik et al {4,902,971}.

Regarding claim 1, Guzik et al discloses a magnetic head tester for testing characteristics of a magnetic head using a rotating medium, comprising: a holder 16 holding a slider (a magnetic head) 18 opposed to a surface of the medium (column 1 line 24); and suspension means being provided in said holder, which has the same function as a suspension supporting the slider in a real apparatus. The drive mechanism in the holder suspends the magnetic head over the medium (column 1 line 25).

Regarding claim 2, Guzik et al discloses the magnetic head tester described above further comprising: a holder base 10 which supports both the medium and the holder thereby biasing the holder toward the medium (column 1 lines 22-26).

Regarding claim 3, Guzik et al discloses the magnetic tester as described above, wherein the holder is supported, with respect to the holder base, by a supporting pin 44, which supports a load center of the holder (pin is located in an intermediate location of the holder), and the biasing means is provided to the supporting pin because of the pivot (column 3 lines 39-43).

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

Claims 4-7 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Guzik et al {4,902,971} in view of Nakagawa et al {6,317,295}.

The magnetic head tester of Guzik et al does not include an elastic member between the holder and holder base. Nakagawa et al shows a leaf spring 8, which is an elastic member, located between the holder 4 and the holder base 2 so as to limit inclination of the holder (Fig. 1). With respect to claim 6, the term cushion is defined as "something resilient used as a support or shock absorber". According to the definition, a spring, or leaf spring, is a cushion, rendering claim 6 equivalent to claims 5 and 7. It would have been obvious to one of ordinary skill in the art to combine the elastic member taught by Nakagawa et al with the magnetic head tester taught by Guzik et al to provide a means for the holder to bias the magnetic head toward the medium for testing (column 3 lines 12-14).

Allowable Subject Matter

Claims 8-10 are objected to as being dependent upon a rejected base claim, but would be allowable if rewritten in independent form including all of the limitations of the base claim and any intervening claims.

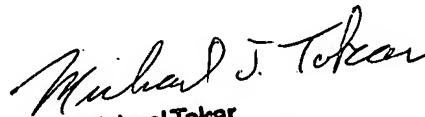

The prior art made of record and not relied upon is considered pertinent to applicant's disclosure. US Patents 5254946, 5315454, 6094047 and US Publication 2205/0083050 all disclose various types of magnetic head testers.
